Getty Images While women are always told they should try pixie cut or long locks at least once in their lives, many men end up just sticking to the same hairstyle forever. Fortunately, some celebrity guys have taken a dip from long hair to short (and back). Do these famous faces look best with long ziers or shorter cuts? See for yourself! Advertising – Continue reading Under 1 Johnny Depp Naturally, every favorite pirate had a job in the early '00s. While the length actually looks pretty great, maybe a little dry shampoo would help in this fat. 2 John Stamos We'd like to recognize that smile everywhere - but maybe not so much with this very '80s hair. Our voice goes to Later John, a less shaggy look. 3 Christian Bale The best thing about the long layers of Christian Bale: you can completely say that he uses a good conditioner. 4 George Clooney Remember When George Was on The Facts of Life? We always loved his warm smile and charming voice, but he really came to himself when he went shorter and gray. Hello, silver fox! 5 Hugh Jackman On top of being one of Hollywood's favorite action stars, this Aussie actor has proven capable of growing hair worthy of pantene advertising. 6 Morgan Freeman In the 80s, this beloved actor rocked a 'fro' - plus a totally on-trend mustache. Later, he decided on closer crops and fuller facial hair. 7 Leonardo DiCaprio We saw this guy very messy and we saw him completely polished - and frankly, this last look usually wins. 8 Brad Pitt Just look at this mug all swallowed by pale blond hair on the way back in 1991. Talk about beach waves! Nowadays Brad has a much more clean cut look, along with tightly trimmed facial hair. 9 Lenny Kravitz This handsome rocker made his way into the world of music in the early 1990s, where he sported long dread drains and then exchanged them for a shorter style later in his career. He still has cool, asymmetric nose earrings, though! 10 Chris Hemsworth Whether he wears it long and in the center parted or short and gelled, Chris Hemsworth somehow manages to take off every haircut. 11 Joaquin Phoenix We appreciated this versatile actor's shaggy commitment to his role in I'm Not There back in 2009, but that carved jaw was engulfed by his dandruff. 12 Jared Leto Known for his beach waves better than almost anyone else on the red carpet, Leto shocked everyone in Hollywood when he cut off all his hair for his role as the Joker in Suicide Squad. After playing the green-haired villain, he opted for a new pink color - a surprisingly flattering look. That does not mean that you are less cool than you were in 30, and you can still reflect that inner coolness with a hairstyle, hairstyle, with the sophistication you have raised along the way. The combination of a selected hairstyle with a well-trimmed beard adds another layer of attractiveness. Who cares if it's gray? Go for it. Photo © Bloom Productions | Getty Images If you have a full head of hair and even go back a bit in your temples, pompadour is a great haircut option. This timeless classic is mature, but still a bit of a candidate. In this style, the hair is cut clipper short on the sides and back and mixed in considerable length at the top. Photo © Robin Skjoldborg | Getty Images This textured, layered cut is a great choice for a mature man who has a fairly full head of hair and wants a little more length. Hair is cut in short layers all over the head and styled with a matte paste such as Baxter of California Clay Pomade. Photos © People Images | Getty Images This short Caesar is a good option for men who thin out on top. Hair is cut in short layers with scissors or a long haircut cover and worn forward with a very light styling product. Photo © Tim Merton | Getty Images Buzzcut is a good option for men who want a low-maintenance style, and even you can do it at home if you have the nerve, skills and the right tools. For this cut, the hair is cut short with the help of no. 4 guards on the top and No. 3 on the sides and back. Photo © Westend61 | Getty Images This short crop is another great option for men who want a low-maintenance hairstyle and it's a particularly good choice for those who thin out on top. In this style, the hair is cut at the length of the finger on top and tapered shorter on the sides and back. For styling, use a light paste or cream, such as Kevin Murphy Easy Rider. A short, trimmed beard fits this style perfectly. Keep your beard trimmed neatly and regularly shave your neck. On an older guy, a neglected beard tends to look, well, older. Keeping it trimmed shows that you still care about how you look. Photos © photos of monuments | Getty Images Just because you're older doesn't mean you have to go short. This loose, wavy shag is an attractive choice for a mature man who still has enough hair to support him. Hair is cut in long, loose layers and styled with your fingers with a touch of styling paste. Redken for Men Maneuver Medium Control Cream Pomade is a good option. Use a good shampoo for gray hair, such as American Crew Gray Shampoo, to make your hair look bright. Photo © Compassionate Eye Foundation / Natasha Alpour Faridan | Getty Images Regardless of age, you can't go wrong with a classic cone — the quintessential men's hairstyle that never goes out of fashion. The hair is tapered short on the sides and back and length on top. For versatility, hair can be worn neatly on the side or loose for a more casual look. Photo © Source | Getty Images It's another men's hairstyle that almost goes out of fashion. George Clooney rocked it for years, for good reason. The cut is short and easy to maintain, but there are enough lengths to give you some options if you want to change it a bit. Photo © Richard Drury | Getty Images One mistake many men who lose their hair, grows longer. This way just highlights balding and makes the guy look older. If you lose it, always go short: shaved head or tight buzzcut is almost always a better option than longer hair. Facial hair draws the eye down the face and away from the balding head, so grow that beard you always wanted. A man's hairstyle can tell a lot about a man. This may indicate his work, the music he likes or the sport in which he could play. He can often suggest his hobbies, what he likes to do, and even his hygiene. Short, long, shaved, oily, buzz cut or pogy — a certain men's hairstyle tells a story. Make sure yours says the right one. Short hairstyles for men French Crop / Textured CropBest French crop consists of short backs and sides, with some precarious length left to play on top. He is popular with the like Zayn Malik, who often returns to French cultivation because it is a good looking style that requires minimal effort - it requires a visit to hairdressers at least once a month. The French crop has seen a resurgence among the hips recently and I see it go mainstream in stores, Robinson tells us. The great thing about styling is that it's a relatively low cost of living. You can almost wash, towel dry slick regardless of the product tickles your fantasies and go. It's a style that would suit someone with a strong jaw and a visible forehead. Ideal for: people with a certain jawline and high cheekbones. Sontia RecchiaGetty Images High and SlickThe High and Slick is the new High and Tight, says Robinson. As in french cultivation, High and Slick has short backs and sides - albeit finishing a bit higher - but with a close-up cut at the top too. The likes of Ryan Reynolds and Calum Best have recently been seen to have converted to High and Slick with their usual High and Tight. It's for a guy who likes a short, sharp but polished look. It is also very popular among those who from the traditional High and Tight from last year. Ask your hairdresser to give Killer fade and grab some pomade to keep you elegant and sharp. Combine with a big suit or dress up your body in jeans and a vintage t-shirt. Ideal for: those with a more rigid, square jaw and a maximum forehead with three fingers. The modern cut of the bowl is slightly different from its infamous 1990s brother, but its premise is roughly the same. Although this is not for everyone, it can certainly be taken down if you have taken the right path. Low fading on the sides, completed into a bowl. The office of Gareth Keenan, it's not. Robinson predicts there will be a revival in 2019. This year will be back cutting bowls, he says. I don't mean when mom sat you down and put a pudding bowl on her head and cut it. This year's trend will be for nicely shorn tapers around the back and sides with a dramatic increase in weight at the top. It's certainly a look at the younger guy. Ideal for: Skinner face with more specific facial features. Neo ModIdeal for fans of nostalgia, neo mod men's hairstyle is perfect for guys with shorter hair wants to earn on styles from a few years ago. After cleansing, lightly haze your hair with five spray spritzes of sea salt and dry your hair roughly towards your face at medium speed and heat — it brings out its natural movement. Finish the look with a 5p sized amount of light hair cream for a natural grip with a slight sheen. Chris JacksonGetty Images Classic PompadourSweeping hair and away from the face, Classic Pompadour is a medium length version of the French crop for the more extravagant. Short back and sides with high and gradual fading and a distinctive back duvet at the top. More out-there consumer pompadour can build on Morrissey's classic look, while more modern day thinkers might think more of David Beckham. One of the best things about pompadour from an aesthetic point of view is a cut that uses the skills of any hairdresser - fading, mixing, cutting, lining and finishing. It offers a certain level of formality, but it can be significantly changed by changing the length of the side, the length of the back and the size of the pump on top. Whether you're with Morrissey or Goldenballs, or it works. Ideal for: those with a more oval head shape and visible forehead. Classic Redux hairstyle: classic redux is not a complicated male hairstyle. After washing your hair with shampoo and conditioner, lightly darken your hair with sea salt spray. Dry your hair back with a flat brush for a smooth finish. To finish, apply a 5p texture paste for a matte finish. Long hairstyles for men Frank Micelotta ArchiveGetty Images GrungerNo so much style, but more a way to maintain a certain appearance, traditional Grunge climate is on its way according to Robinson. With Glastonbury returning I think the look of the festival will be hot for the boys, he says. Longer hair, less shampoo, salt gallons and deconstructed layers. No one does it like Kurt Cobain, but watch out for someone who will pay attention to it in the summer. The beauty of a longer, grunger look is that it can be left to your own devices and fits most of those who take it on. It might just get a little used to it. Perfect for: Hide your head in the shape of a stranger and show visible facial features. Frazer HarrisonGetty Images ShaggyIf you are looking for inspiration on what you should do with longer, shaggy hair no further than Timothée Chalamet. Longer locks can be messy, voluminous or elegant depending on both mood and occasion. Hair such as Timothee needs care and attention, it must be well washed and conditioned to ensure an optimal healthy and clean appearance, but if done properly, the results are unsurmed. The well-groomed shaggy look exudes class and can often make your face slimmer than it actually is - a welcome bonus. Ideal for: Pointier facial features and smaller head size. Dave J HoganGetty Images Peaky Blinders HaircutSering's own section, peaky blinders hairstyle - or undercut with short back and sides as it is traditionally known - is either class one or two on the sides, with a large length on top to be swept aside. It is similar to last year's trend of textured crops, but more defining in its functions. Usually you could ask for a Peaky Blinders hairstyle or a Thomas Shelby special, such is the popularity, but if you've found a hairdresser who has lived under a rock for the past few years, tell them above and make sure you get on Netflix as soon as possible.
